CONVENTION BOOK
ANOTHER
FURRY CON

Message from the Con-Chair

After years of work and planning, Another Furry Con is finally here. It's been a long, exciting, and challenging time but seeing this come together has made it all worth it. AFC was built on the foundation of creating an inclusive convention that gives everyone something to do. From panel enjoyers, to gaming enthusiasts, to party-goers, we believe in creating a convention full of fun, where attendees can let go and be themselves.

Some have wondered why the name "Another Furry Con" and the simple answer is we acknowledge that we're another furry convention but we aim to be anything but another furry con. Being in the name, we can't forget why we started this or who we're doing this for. We hope you see this for yourself as you explore what AFC has to offer.

I'd also like to take this opportunity to give the biggest thank you to the Leadership Team: Vice-Chair - Scribbles, Technology Director - Alofoxx, and Operations Director - Chip Unicorn. The amount of dedication and passion they've shown is more than anything I can ask for and this would not have come together without them. I'd also like to take this time to give a shout out to all the Leads, Staff, and Artists for helping make this convention possible.

One thing I do ask is that everyone behave themselves. Know your limit if consuming alcoholic beverages, and for the love of everything good in this world, DO NOT DRINK AND DRIVE! We're honored to be at a convention center year one and we'd love to make this our home for years to come. Please do your part in helping ensure we are welcomed back. :)

All in all, the goal for you this weekend is to have fun, be safe, speak up if something doesn't look right, enjoy the night, dance, be random, DRINK WATER!, and try not to think of the outside world this weekend. We hope you enjoy AFC this year, we thank you for being a part of our first year, and we look forward to being anything but Another Furry Con.

Hear hear, valiant Adventufurs!

This is King Wiseman IV speaking with utmost urgency. I come to you with tidings of both dire straits and hope. We have summoned the bravest and most noble of you here because the very heart of our cherished Freet Continent is under dire threat. The nefarious Evil Court is seeking to plunge our beloved land into turmoil and destruction by creating dark machinations to conjure an army from the very wrath they incite, and we are in need of your courageous spirits.

We have but two days before their superior dark magic becomes irreversible. Thus, we have summoned you, the finest Adventufurs from across the realm, to assist in our quest to dismantle their wicked designs and ensure they face justice for their transgressions. While you embark on your perilous mission, know that the Town of Freet remains a sanctuary of safety. Our most skilled mages shield the city from the encroaching darkness, though their protection extends no further.

We have uncovered their insidious plans and, with your gallant aid, we can thwart their schemes once and for all. They have cast a formidable spell upon four of our sacred domains: the DRAGON'S LAIR, ICE MOUNTAIN, the MERCHANT'S GUILD, and the MUSHROOM FOREST.

Your noble task is clear: assemble a fellowship of four, seek out the malignant spells ensnaring these domains, and dismantle them before it is too late. Additional quests are available within the Freet Capital, which will aid our city and unveil further intelligence on the Evil Court. Meanwhile, my own forces shall scour the land for their lair to bring those responsible to justice. I shall relay further updates as they arise.

We have established a magical communications conduit for swift and clear correspondence. The details to connect are provided below.

Thank you, brave Adventufurs, for your unwavering courage and commitment. Together, we shall prevail. May the light of justice guide your path.

King Wiseman IV

Guests of Honor

Another Furry Con: Fantasy Adventufurs is proud to recognize and celebrate outstanding people within the furry community. Our Guests of Honor have been chosen for their exceptional contributions to the fandom and we'd like you to join us in giving them a strong welcome! Our four Guest of Honor categories this year are:

ANIMATOR | FURSUIT MAKER | VOICE ACTOR | YOUTUBER

Animator - Kyra Kupetsky

Kyra Kupetsky is the creator of the online animated short-form series Chikn Nuggit. She's also Chikn's voice actor and one of the show's animators. Kyra loves drawing cute and cuddly critters with just a touch of silly edge. She's been living out in Burbank, CA as an animator at BuzzFeed's Animation Lab for nearly 8 years now and having an amazing time.

Kyra wants to continue making fun cartoony content, creating LGBT stories, and just keep having a great time hanging with the art-loving community at large.

Chikn Nuggit is an online cartoon comedy series about a weird, long-eared dog named Chikn Nuggit and his similarly fast-food-named pals. New episodes premiere on Mondays and Fridays!

Fursuit Maker - Kemonokapi

Kemonokapi is a fursuit making duo, feathers (she/her) the okapi from Vancouver, Canada, and Cinder (she/her) the maned wolf, born and raised in Honolulu, now in Vancouver. Sloth is their social media manager who handles posting new work, online communications and organization.

Since 2018 Kemonokapi has been making kemono style fursuits exclusively, and has focused on helping others get into making and wearing kemono style fursuits! feathers and Cinder work out of their home in the metro Vancouver area where they obsess over their four rabbit children and rarely go outside.

Outside of furry, feathers is a huge enjoyer of Bandori, a girls band-based rhythm and gacha franchise. Misaki Okusawa is her role model.

Voice Actor - Sean Chiplock

Inside you, there are two wolves; inside Sean, there's a cat, a wolf, a jackalope, a pirate cat, a painted dog, a guy who gets turned INTO a dog, and a concerning (and slowly increasing) number of birds – and that's just the roles that AREN'T humans!

Sean's professional voiceover career has brought him opportunities from all over to bring characters to life, whether it's fandom-related projects like Billie Bust Up, Bedfellows, Komorebi, Winds of Change, and Kings of Hell, or more commonly known roles like Revali and Teba (BOTW), Guido Mista (JJBA), Rean Schwarzer (ToCS), and Ky Kiske (GGS). Heck, there's even some roles from both sides that he'll need ID proof from you before he can talk about them!

When not tackling his voiceover work, he often enjoys streaming games from his favorite genres, dubbing the dialogue in real-time while sharing his passions for the worlds he sometimes even gets to directly contribute to.

When you see him, whether you're in-suit or not, make sure to show him your OC – it's practically guaranteed he's going to gush over it!

You Tuber - James Rallison (TheOddisOut)

OwO? Who's this? It's your favorite cartoon blue dog, TheOddisOut! TheOddisOut (aka James) has been making animation on YouTube for over 10 years and has released a series of books, games and created his own show on Netflix. Currently he is making short form content based off of his comics and silly ideas. James loves bringing his ideas to life with his team, especially if they make people laugh.

This will be James's first time being a Guest of Honor at a convention and fourth furry con.

Is he a furry? Who knows. Does he own a fursuit? Yeah, but that doesn't mean anything. Is he in denial? Is this just a long bit to keep people on their toes about someone's personal life? Guess we'll find out September 27th-29th.

In Memory of Syllys Sable (Mark Merlino)

Written by Vinson Mink

I met Mark Francis Merlino, the man whom the world would come to know as Syllys Sable, on an unofficial high school “field trip”. Our Science Fiction Club had decided to make a group trip to the Los Angeles regional science fiction convention, known as LosCon – which for some reason that year was being held in Anaheim, just north of Disneyland. Now, quick background on me: Besides being a general issue science fiction geek, I was also already known for my neurodivergent obsession with Mustelidae – the weasel family of mammals. River otters held a special place in my heart, but the whole family grabbed my attention: Weasels, badgers, sea otters, minks, and more. Even some that I only learned about through my frequent trips to the library, like wolverines, honey badgers, and martens.

Now I had been to science fiction conventions before, but LosCon 7 was the first one I had ever attended that had an Art Show. That would prove fateful. Lots of epic fantasy themes, lots of impressive star fields and starships, lots of people who were obviously gunning to get a job painting book covers. But then... a friend of mine grabbed me and said there was some art I really ought to see. And there they were: Rather cartoonish but well-painted pictures of otter-like and marten-like aliens with very colorful fur, and antennae. Like bugs. I immediately charged up to the Art Show staff and begged to know who the creator of this art was. They said “Oh, he’s the guy running our Japanese Animation Screening Room”. I said, “There’s a Japanese Animation Screening Room?”

I walked over there, and walked in as an episode of Brave Reideen was playing. There at the front by the video player was this thin gent with long fluffy hair, a big mustache, and a rather big nose. He looked kind of geek, kind of hippie, and very, very college student. When he had a moment, I asked him “Do you have artwork in the Art Show?” He said he did. I said, “Why do your pine martens have antennae?”

He kind of stared at me for a moment. Then: “You know what a pine marten is?” I said, “Of course I do – I’m a big fan of the entire mustelid family!” Another moment, and he said, “Well sit down and I’ll explain it to you.”

His name was Mark Merlino. It turns out that those creatures were an original species he had created in his own high school days, when he decided he was tired of “aliens” in Star Trek and other science fiction TV shows being nothing but humans with pointy ears and such. The Skiltaire as they were called (one Skiltaire, many Skiltaire) were mustelid-shaped, and came in two main variations: Aquatics, who lived in the water and looked like otters, and Arboreals, who lived in the tree canopies and looked like martens. Their bodies were surrounded by an electromagnetic sensory field, controlled by their antennae. This not only aided them in hunting, but over the millennia they had evolved to become telepathic – that is, they can read sensory and emotional signals from others around them, and project the same right back. Mark was working on a science fiction book series, called Meander, about when humans first encounter the Skiltaire. As an aspiring science fiction writer myself, I was definitely intrigued. Then Mark told me about the short stories he had already written for his other series, one where humans had died off and genetically enhanced non-humans had taken over running the planet. The lead characters were, of course, an otter and a pine marten – in love. I said to myself, I have got to visit this guy more often.

And so, I did. And soon I began to learn that the two of us had an amazing number of interests in common for two people who had literally stumbled upon each other. Not just mustelids and Japanese Animation, but a love for all sorts of British Media – science fiction (Doctor Who and The Prisoner), comedy (Monty Python and The Goodies), and even literature (from Rupert the Bear to Watership Down). And classic animation. And Disney – but not just any Disney. The “princess stuff” was fine, but what really got our attention was the funny animal stuff... Robin Hood, 101 Dalmatians, Bambi, and The Rescuers (always a big favorite of mine) among them. He told me about how, in his childhood, his parents would take him along to watch movies at the theater on the naval base. Which was always a nightmare for them, as he was a fussy little boy who would not sit still or shut up, ever. That is, until they took him to see Bambi... and he shut his mouth, staring wide-eyed at the screen, not making a sound for the entire film.

Mark told me another story, about how two Skiltaire in particular took on a special significance. Being a massive animation fan, Mark had been a part of the International Animated Film Society (ASIFA – it's French). What's more, he was a student assistant to ASIFA's president, the famous voice actor June Foray, when she was first trying to create the Annie Awards – the Oscars for animation. Mark even organized an amazing display of animation artwork, cels, and background paintings at the newly completed Student Center at his alma mater, Cal Poly Pomona. (He made a lot of friends in the animation industry, driving around Hollywood collecting materials.) But in spite of all that, he was growing restless in ASIFA. Animation in the USA was in bad shape back then, and an awful lot of older fans seemed to be resolved to letting it die – while ignoring interesting things that were happening in animation in places like Japan. And so, Mark and several of his friends got together and formed the Cartoon/Fantasy Organization (or C/FO), specifically to promote animation and fantasy films and TV from around the world. In those early days, many of their meetups were organized by Mark and his then girlfriend, Louise. Mark had created two special Skiltaire to be the mascots for the C/FO: Fanta, a golden arboreal, and Sy, a silver aquatic with a purple stripe. (Fanta-Sy, get it?) Because Louise and Mark were running the events, people playfully began to refer to them as "Fanta" and "Sy", respectively. Mark had an uncle named Cyrus, of whom he was fond, so he was amused at being called Sy. Eventually he would take on Sy the Skiltaire as his personal mascot in his artwork.

Not long after, through C/FO's chapter in New York, Sy met a fan named Ken Sample, who was a talented artist. Ken had created his own science fiction universe that featured genetically engineered humanoid creatures as main characters. First up were the Silkies, slender feline/mustelid hybrids with very long prehensile tails. But after that Ken began to draw humanoid anthropomorphic characters of a variety of species. One among them was a male cougar, usually drawn reacting to the various sexy female characters Ken would draw. He showed up in Ken's artwork often enough that Sy began referring to him as "Ken Cougar". Ken denied it at first, but it was kind of obvious: He had Ken's hair, Ken's glasses, Ken's build, and so forth. Eventually Ken relented and said yes, that cougar was meant to represent him in anthro form. Sy then suggested that the rest of us ought to think up "furry" characters for ourselves. (By now "furry" had started to catch on as a term for anthro characters that were more humanoid and less toony than "funny animals".) And so, Sy invented a character named Syls (sigh-liss) Sable. (Sables and martens are very closely related, and he liked the sound of that name.) I, meanwhile, created Vinson the mink (based on mustela vison, the Latin name for minks). Back in those days, it was very important that furry characters have a backstory, so Sy and I also had our personal characters be genetically engineered creatures.

By this point, when I was in the middle of my university years, it had become obvious to both Sy and I that our relationship had changed. We weren't just friends, we weren't just fellow geeks, we were lovers – or as we liked to say, life-mates. (Both of us being so into the world of non-human animals.) Thing is, try as we might, we could never figure out exactly when that happened... it just sort of came about, and it took a while for even us to notice. And so rather than trying to pin a date for when that part of our "relationship" began, from then on until his passing in 2024, we referred to our "anniversary" as the Friday after Thanksgiving – The day we first met.

In Memory of Rolix

Rolix - a good friend, jokester, event runner, DJ, and an overall welcomed member of the SoCal furry community. Rolix was as big of a dreamer as he was a doer. Living life to the fullest and constantly looking for ways to bring more joy to the community. It's profoundly saddening that he will not be here to experience AFC and what it could become, but that doesn't mean he can't be here in spirit.

Rolix's passing, if nothing else, should serve as a reminder that moments should be treasured. While enjoying AFC, remember to cherish the moments with friends and family, and even make amends with people with whom you've previously had disagreements with. It's never too late to forgive until they're gone.

Scout, I'm happy to see MAW continuing and I hope the community shows their appreciation and respect by attending the next event and future ones. Let's keep the dream alive, I'm sure that's what he would want.. that and a drink. Rolix strongly believed in a work hard, play hard philosophy and though he partied hard, his work ethic was second to none.

He will be missed. Gone, but certainly not forgotten; his memory lives on in our community and though rent's high in California, he can live for free in our hearts.

I thank you for reading this and while Rolix wasn't officially part of Another Furry Con, he did give input and had great ideas, so I felt it was only right to include him in the con book. As you party, I hope you'll share a toast in his memory and know he did everything he could for the community he loved.

To Rolix: party hard in the sky, man, and save me a space until the next time we meet forever.

This Santa Ysabel-based nonprofit is dedicated to the conservation of canids. Canids include mammals from the Canidae family such as foxes, wolves, coyotes, jackals, and dogs. JABCECC rescues these remarkable animals and employs them as ambassadors to engage and educate the community about the vital importance of canid preservation.

JABCECC offers immersive experiences such as private animal encounters, photography sessions, and guided tours, allowing visitors to engage with and learn about canids firsthand. These programs aim to foster a deeper connection between people and these often-misunderstood animals, promoting greater empathy and awareness.

To the Brave Subjects of the Freenet Continent,

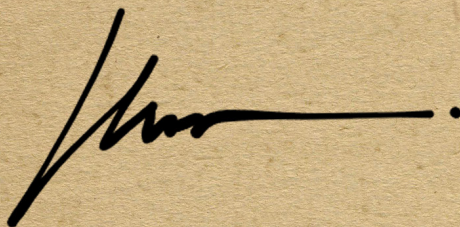

By the decree of King Wiseman IV, all loyal subjects are hereby called upon to undertake a most urgent and perilous quest.

It has come to our attention that a band of wicked conspirators has been casting dark spells and curses upon our lands from a hidden lair deep within the kingdom. These vile sorcerers, who have conspired in shadows against our crown, plots a wicked fate for our realm. I seek those with courage, sharp wit, and unyielding spirit to uncover this foul nest of evil. Those who bring forth word of its location or aid in its discovery shall be rewarded with glory beyond measure.

Seek counsel from the merchants of the Merchant's Guild, for they hold knowledge of many travels and distant lands. Their whispers may conceal the very clues you need to uncover the evil court.

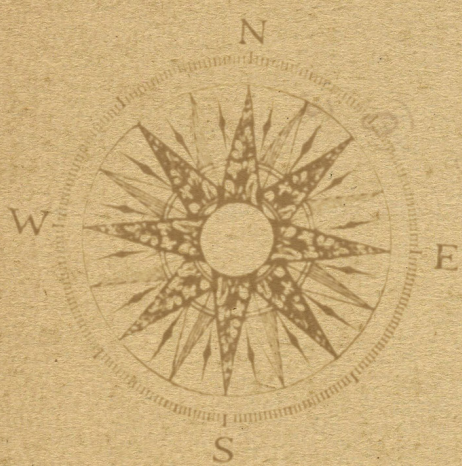

Know also that new announcements and vital information will be proclaimed as soon as fresh discoveries are made by the valiant adventurers who set forth on this noble quest.

*Go forth with haste and honor,
and may the light of justice
guide your path.*

*By my hand and seal,
King Wiseman IV*

MEETING ROOM 103

Rules & Schedule

Hours of Operation

Friday - 12:00 PM - 12:00 AM

Saturday - 12:00 PM - 12:00 AM

Sunday - 12:00 PM - 4:00 PM

(Note: Hours may differ due to break, setup, and other situations)

What The Littles Room Is:

Think daycare for adults. A place to relax, meet others, draw/color, play with toys and blocks, etc. There will be panels inside at certain times, games, and events.

NOTE: WHILE THIS IS AN 18+ ROOM, THIS IS A GENERAL AUDIENCE ENVIRONMENT AND ALL TOPICS MUST REMAIN PG.

Entering/Leaving:

Adventufurs may come and go as they please in this room but will have to show ID every time they enter. When arriving to and leaving the Littles Room, normal wear is required. There will be a changing stall inside and an area for backpacks and belongings.

Code of Conduct

Personal Conduct:

Within the convention space, there are rules and regulations that must be followed in regard to how Attendees conduct themselves. We want Attendees to have as much fun as possible, but there is a difference between having fun and being disruptive or dangerous to others or property around you. Prohibited conduct includes, but is not limited to:

- ◇ Fighting, rough-housing, vandalism of the hotel or convention property, threatening others, or abusive language in convention areas, including hotels.
- ◇ Hate speech, including attire and wearables.
- ◇ Sleeping on the OCC property (including the parking lots). Those sleeping will be woken up and asked to retire to their room.
- ◇ Failure to dispose of waste in the proper receptacles. Litter should not be left on tables used for convention activities nor left on the floor. While there will be ushers, please do your part in picking up behind yourself.
- ◇ Congregating in front of the elevators, except with the purpose of taking an elevator, or blocking the hallways. Please keep the flow of traffic moving or find an area that doesn't impede it to congregate.
- ◇ Attempting to access Staff only, Employee only, Service elevators, or any off-limits areas of the OCC, partnered hotels, and its respective venues.
- ◇ Impersonating OCC Staff, AFC Staff, OPD, or Security. This is one the quickest ways to have your badge removed and possibly face legal charges by the State.

Any member caught performing any illegal activity that violates local, state, and/or federal laws will be subject to having their membership revoked and will be referred to the proper authorities.

Harassment & Assault:

Simply put, "NO" MEANS NO, AND "STOP" MEANS STOP. If an Attendee asks you to leave them alone, go away, or stop something, cease immediately. If you feel someone is failing to understand this, please go to Con-Ops or find a Safety team member for assistance.

We want everyone to enjoy their time, and AFC has a strong stance against harassment and assault of any kind, whether in convention space or hotel space.

This includes but is not limited: to unwanted contact, following someone without legitimate reasoning, threatening violence, or negatively provoking another person or animal. Offenders may have their badge removed and, depending on the matter, may be reported to proper law enforcement authorities. If you feel you are being harassed, we encourage you to immediately seek a Staff person or head to Con-Operations.

Costume is Not Consent:

Additionally, wearing a fursuit or costume does not grant anyone else license to make inappropriate or suggestive comments or gestures. AFC is a welcoming convention and part of that includes welcoming cosplay of popular TV series, animations, and video games, welcoming mascots and fursuits, whether original or not, and more. Regardless of the costume, harassment of any kind will not be tolerated. If the costume in question is offensive, the wearer may be asked to leave the convention space by AFC leadership. AFC reserves the right to have the final say on what is and isn't considered offensive.

Pets:

Pets are not allowed in the Ontario Convention Center, and each hotel will have its own policy regarding pets. Service animals are welcome in all hotels and the OCC. Animals other than canine service animals, and miniature horse service animals will not be permitted with the OCC. Emotional support animals will not be considered service animals for the purpose of this policy.

Smoking and Vaping:

The Ontario Convention Center and partner hotels are smoke-free environments (including vaping). Venues may have a designated smoke area, and it is the responsibility of the Attendee to locate these areas for smoke breaks. If you are a smoker, please be respectful of our non-smoking guests and maintain a distance of at least 50 feet from any venue entrance when smoking outside.

Stickers and Signage:

The city of Ontario, including the venue, hotels, and outside areas have a strict no stickering law that prohibits stickers and signs from being placed on sidewalks, poles, walls, and more. Stickering or taping signage to any of these areas counts as a misdemeanor and could result in fines and/or jail time. AFC has sticker boards located within the convention and will have events that allow stickers to be placed on boards and sold at the charity auction. Aside from these approved boards, do not place stickers or signage on public or private property, without express permission given by the city or owner.

...And to everyone else who was added after this book was printed: THANK YOU!

Thank You

A very special thank you to all the organizations involved in helping make this convention a success. Organizations include - Kelcema Audio, Furality, Game Saru, SoCal Creatures, Vixen, Wiley, Furcon Ai, and ConReviews. These organization's contributions, from audio rental to arcades to furniture equipment, was done out of the kindness of their hearts and we appreciate them working with us to create a memorable experience for all of our attendees.

Another thank you to YOU, the attendee, for putting your faith and trust in a first-year convention. We are a nonprofit, funded by registration and convention contributions, so without your support, we would not be able to do this for the fandom. We hope to bring you enjoyable experiences for years to come and don't be afraid to tell us how we can improve!
