Guest of Honour

Hailing from the Philippines, Ben-ben started learning how to draw since his high school days. He would later go on to further his studies in Animation for four years here in Malaysia.

Upon graduation, he returned to his homeland where he worked with an advertising company for over two years, producing several local commercials. He would subsequently join a small game studio before going freelance.

Since then, Ben-ben has produced numerous digital and traditional commissions. He also has an artbook to his name, and is currently working on compiling more artwork for the next one. Between projects, he also dabbles in painting. Ben-ben has expressed future hopes of joining another studio if the opportunity arises. Until then, he will continue to create better art.

Ben-ben maintains a Chow Chow / Labrador mix fursona, although he says most people know him as “the guy with the red Oni mask”.
