

PREHISTORIC PANIC

Scotiacon 2024

THE LAND THAT TIME FORGOT

Hello Survivors!

Welcome to Scotiacon 2024: Prehistoric Panic! We're all fans of the beasties of old. Dasker, the Creative Team, some incredibly talented artists and I have poured our heart and souls (and tears) into this book to make it a treat for you to read. Here you'll find everything you need to survive in this fantastic jungle we'll be calling home for the next few days.

We hope you'll find the con an exciting experience, though perhaps with less of the PREHISTORIC PANIC part. As an attendee your job is to relax, have fun, and decide what your favourite dinosaur is if you haven't already.

Hope to see you all around!

- Kapu

(PS: Mine is a Therizinosaurus)

THE THEME

CRASH!!!

The deafening sound echoed around the dense jungles, rustling the leaves and sending several creatures calling in distress. Smoke billowed out from the midst of the forest, leading to an unexpected sight among the ancient shrubbery and beasts.

A rocket ship.
Well, a crash-landed rocket ship.

It was amazing Wallace survived, let alone unscathed! Pulling himself free from the rubble, he began to look around to gauge his surroundings. Nothing but leaves and bushes as far as he could see. Wherever he'd landed, it was beautiful, but he needed to find out how to repair the rocket to make his way home. No way he could do that from the middle of a forest.

He set out into the forest, searching for any signs of life or any of the planet's inhabitants.

THUD. . . THUD. . .

Looking up, Wallace couldn't believe what he saw. A huge lizard-like creature with a long neck, craning towards the leaves and vines in the tall trees. A brontosaurus! When he looked further through the forest, he realised just exactly what kind of special place he'd landed.

Dinosaurs! Dinosaurs and ancient beasts as far as his eyes could see. Wallace had landed himself in some sort of prehistoric paradise. A world that time had entirely forgot. Sure, it would mean he wouldn't be able to repair the rocket ship for a good while, but why not explore for a bit?

A light caught his eye. A glowing plant leading to a cave. Curiosity piqued, he headed below...

STEP. . . STEP. . . STEP. . .

The cave was oddly bright, lit up in gentle blue and purple hues given off by the fluorescent fungi clinging to the cave crevices. A turn here, a turn there, the cave felt like it went on for ages.

Eventually, he came across another dinosaur. Although, this one was different...

Upon their head was a small flower, fashioned as though it were a hat. They had thumbs, and were clinging to a small book, reading under the light of a particularly large mushroom. They seemed to hum to themselves, tail wagging gently in their relaxed state.

"Excuse me?" Wallace gently asked, stepping out carefully from the cave.

Their long neck craned up away from their book, eyes darting in Wallace's direction in a wary way. As soon as they locked eyes with Wallace, they were instantly at ease.

"A stranger!" They smiled, tilting their head. "A furry stranger. We don't get many of your kind around here."

"Well, I'm a wee bit lost." Wallace scratched his head. "I was a bit of a numpty and crashed me ship."

"A stranger from the stars even! How exciting." They moved aside a little bit, a small gesture to invite Wallace closer. "Come, sit a while. I'd love to show you my home and hear about yours."

MEET THE CHARITY

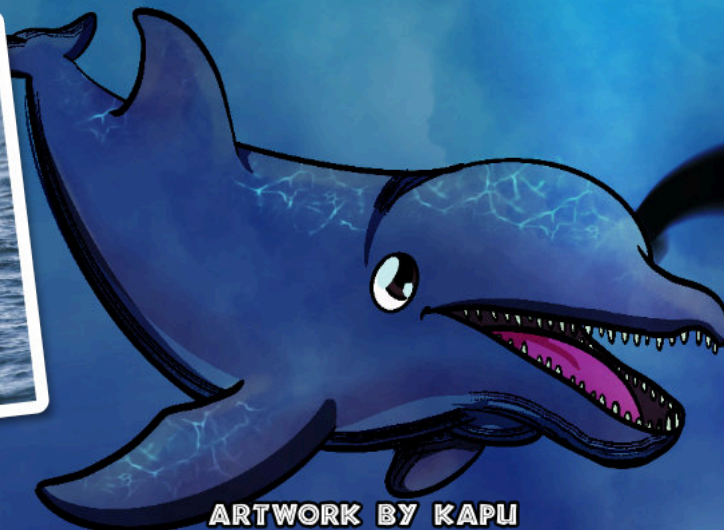

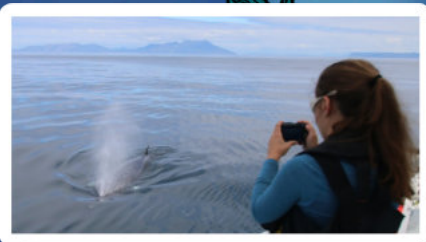

HEBRIDEAN WHALE AND DOLPHIN TRUST

Hebridean Whale and Dolphin Trust (Or HWDT) hail from the Isle of Mull, in the heart of the Hebrides. They've been leading the conservation efforts for whales, dolphins, porpoises and more in the west Scottish shores for over two decades.

Throughout those years, they've worked with communities and created education programs that reach out to over 20,000 people a year, highlighting the importance of our ocean friends and their habitat.

Their efforts to reach out to the Scottish Government lead to the creation of Scotland's first Marine Protected Areas, which will help with further research, conservation, and education for many years to come.

Talk about being burdened with 'glorious porpoise!'

Shadow Raccoon's Price is Right

Saturday 4pm - 5:30pm - Mainstage/Argyll
By Shadow Raccoon & Frio

Based off the hit TV show The Price Is Right contestants compete against each other in crazy mini-games to win spectacular prizes. Join Shadow Raccoon for a show packed with entertainment, mildly amusing jokes, and lots of fantastic "prizes" that he totally didn't dig out of the trash this morning. Whether you're a contestant or watching from the audience, everyone can be a winner, if The Price is Right.

Drums N' Roses

Saturday 8pm - 9pm - Mainstage/Argyll
By Scotiacon

After the success and popularity of the Drums N' Roses of last year, it was only right to bring them back for another year. So as they put it so well before, let the pipes move you and have the heartbeat of the drums help you move on the dancefloor.

Ceil's Karaoke Conundrum

Saturday 10pm - 2am - Mainstage/Argyll
By Ceil

What's your genre? Whether you're into showtunes, gangster rap, heavy metal, or chiptunes, you'll find it here. I mean... obviously not chiptunes, but if you can sing them you might be better suited for the open mic, cause that's one Hell of a talent.

Fursuit Highland Games

Dinosaurs: From Fossils to Fursuits

Friday 4pm - 5pm - Panel Room 2 / Castle 3
By Cypren

Dinosaurs! We all love them. But with how much of a pop culture icon they are, much of their real identity can be muddled. In this talk, we'll take you on a journey through their discovery, what they are, their several million year reign, and finally how our understanding of them is changing. Hopefully we can help dispel some myths about this fascinating group of animals, and give a newfound appreciation for the beings that ruled the world long before we came along.

Saturday & Sunday 10am - 2:30am
Monday - 10am - 12:30am

Fursuit Lounge / Castle 1

Fursuiting is a major part of our community. It's sweaty work, but who doesn't love dressing up as a big fluffy creature or a creepy beastie and all the like. That being said, we know it's hard work, and it's all too easy to get carried away and forget to look after yourselves.

As we have years prior, we've provided the Fursuit Lounge to aid you. Step into a room with seats, fans, drinks and salty snacks to refresh yourself ready for getting back out there.

Please note the Fursuit Lounge is intended for suiters and their handlers only, photography is strictly prohibited in the Suit Lounge.

WHAT ELSE IS IN GLASGOW?

We know many of you have come from all different parts of the country. Or perhaps even from a different country! Why not spend some time looking at some of the other sights while you're up here?

While the following attractions are in no way related to the convention, we've asked some of our lovely staff for their favourite things to see or do while they're up this way.

Glasgow Botanic Gardens

Wander 50 acres of leafy parkland in the heart of the west end at Glasgow Botanic Gardens. Visit Kibble Palace, a magnificent wrought iron-framed Victorian glasshouse filled with exotic tree ferns. You can also step inside the 11 other balmy glasshouses to see rare orchids and a collection of begonias. If you feel like stretching your legs, you can follow the path to reach the riverside walk. This provides a picturesque route through the city towards Kelvingrove Park and the art gallery and museum.

Riverside Museum

Sometimes described as "Glasgow's Guggenheim", the Riverside Museum is Glasgow's award-winning museum of transport, housed inside a marvellous building designed by architect Zaha Hadid. Inside you'll find a treasure trove of 3,000 exhibits which hark back to the olden days of transport, with everything from tramcars and bone-shaker buses to steam engines and gleaming vintage cars on display. Moored outside is the star exhibit, the Glenlee, a three-masted barque launched in 1896 and one of only five sailing ships built on the River Clyde still afloat.

Sharmanka Kinetic Theatre

Enter the weird and wonderful world of kinetic sculptures at Sharmanka Kinetic Theatre. A real hidden gem, this magical toyshop-like venue is home to "toys" which are best described as installation art pieces.

Marvel as they come to life to enact theatrical performances against a backdrop of music and synchronised lighting. The stories will enchant children and adults alike, celebrating the strength of the human spirit and the circle of life.

WANT TO HELP OUT SCOTIACON?

As we grow we're always looking at making the convention better. But we can't do that without growing our team as well!

We have many roles available and will be recruiting next year. Keep an eye on the Scotiacon Live Telegram Channel for more info, or reach out to the Head of the Department you're interested in!
