 Panels 1

An in-depth look at the Kemono / Beastmen fandom which is very much it's own Furry Fandom of the Easter Pacific. Will feature artwork from artists in Japan, China, Korea, Singapore, Thailand, and talk about their popufurs, conventions, musicians. It will be a large exposition on this other Furry fandom that's developed because of the language barriers. Your host has interviewed many bilingual furies who are active in both the Western and Eastern Furry fandoms. The panel will include visual aids (magazines, comic books, convention pamphlets from China / Japan / Korea) as well as showing pictures and animations from popular Beastmen artists. It'll also hit on just how massive this fandom is, with artists who are basically completely unknown in the US and Europe, but have 20-30k twitter followers in Japan, the dozens of fursuit makers, as well as show where the disconnects in our fandoms are for why they're not better known here (from using different instant messengers to websites and forums entirely)

Girls, boys, folks, dogs, cats, and original creations of all ages, may I have your attention please! Ever had the chance to see a real clown in person before? Yes? No? asking yourself what exactly a REAL clown is like? As a Clowns of America International joey clown (that means clown in their first year of performing in clown-a-nese!), it's my pleasure to share the wonderful world of clowning to attendees of my home convention. This panel will be done as a 30 minute show discussing (and showing!) what a clown is, myths and stereotypes about clowns, some essential clown skills, and storytelling as I am a certified Red Nose Reader, a member of a program for teaching about clowns and diversity throughout schools across the USA created by Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Clown Pricilla Mooseburger! After the event, I'll also be doing some balloon animals for some lucky critters! This is a very kid/family friendly panel so please behave and act accordingly. Expect zany antics, rubber chickens and volunteer participation (no pies into YOUR faces, I promise!). I guarantee you'll learn something new! Please wear a face mask and practice social distancing just like out and about at the convention. Yours, mine, and everyone's safety takes paramount, even when clowning around!
