Q & A - Females & Males of the community

 Boardroom A

There is a very obvious a barrier between the genders and how we communicate that I and others have noticed, and in my effort to not only understand, but to help others, as well as taking suggestion from last year's Q&A to hold another, I am making this panel for those that really need answers and don't know who or what to ask when the opposite gender does something that is hard or difficult to understand. (And also help be less creepy when trying to get someone's attention lol) We are built differently, it's nature, and we sometimes need a translator to help the language barrier that occurs and to aid in understanding what one is going through, and it's great for anyone going through any hardships with someone of the opposite, or even same gender (sometimes we don't understand our own side of things too!). We will have an "anonymous" drop box available for those that want to ask a question but not want to say it out loud. Panel may get emotional as we share a bit about ourselves to help understand one another. We will not tolerate rude, discriminatory or negative behaviour.

A History of Furies in the Military

 Tivoli's II

A History of Furies in the Military is a powerpoint presentation that covers both the involvement of furies in various world militaries over the course of history as well as features Nando talking about his experiences with other furies over the course of his his tour overseas. This is nothing new in the world, but it's hardly been documented so we're both pretty proud of what we've dug up. Furies should be proud of who they are and the influence they've had on the world, even if we're only becoming aware of it now. This is an unbiased view of war and the military for sake of other people's politics. At the end of the presentation, we'll have an open forum where attendees can ask us questions about our research and experiences.
